

Kadri Aavik is an Associate Professor of Gender Studies at Tallinn University, Estonia and a postdoctoral researcher at the University of Helsinki, Finland. She holds a PhD in Sociology and an MA in Gender Studies. Her research contributes to critical animal studies and vegan studies. She has studied the animal advocacy movement and its links to other social justice movements, the reluctance of mainstream feminists to embrace animal justice and veganism, institutional resistance to veganism, on the example of medical encounters in Estonia, and the role of national dietary guidelines in promoting human use of other animals.